Is it permissible to post links to websites from my course page?

    Providing the URL to outlink from a course page to a resource on the open WWW is likely permissible under copyright law.\footnote{Ticketmaster Corp. v. Tickets.com, Inc., 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 6483, at *20 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 6, 2003) (“A URL is simply an address, open to the public, like the street address of a building, which, if known, can enable the user to reach the building. There is nothing sufficiently original to make the URL a copyrightable item, especially the way it is used.”)} However, you should be careful not to link to an infringing site to avoid any potential claims of contributory infringement.\footnote{Mary Minow and Tomas A.
